Lesson 43: The Sixth Im®m (Ja'far bin Muhammad)

Name: Ja'far.

Agnomen: Abu 'Abdill h.

Title: As-Sidiq.

Father: Muhammad bin 'Ali.

Mother: Umm Farwah.

Birth: 17th Rabi I, 83 AH in Medina.

Death: 25th Shaww 1 148 AH in Medina.

1. Birth & Early Days

Imam Ja'far as-Sediq, son of the fifth Imam, was born in 83 A.H./702 C.E. After the death of his father in 114 A.H., he became Imam by Divine Command and decree of the Imam who came before him.

2. His Imamate: Continuation of Scholarly Jih d

During the 34 years of imamate of as-Sidiq (a.s.) greater possibilities and a more favorable climate existed for him to propagate religious teachings. This came about as a result of revolts in Islamic lands, especially the uprising of the Muswaddah to overthrow the Umayyad caliphate, and the bloody wars which finally led to the fall and extinction of the Umayyads. The greater opportunities for Shi'ite teachings were also a result of the favourable ground the fifth Imam had prepared during the twenty years of his imamate through the propagation of the true teachings of Islam and the sciences of the Ahlu 'I-Bayt of the Prophet.

Imam as-Sediq took advantage of the occasion to propagate the religious sciences until the very end of his imamate, which coincided with the end of the Umayyad and beginning of the Abbasid caliphates. He instructed many scholars in different fields of the intellectual and transmitted sciences, such as Zurerah,

Muhammad ibn Muslim, Mu'min at-Teq, Hishem ibn Hakam, Aben ibn Taghlib, Hishem ibn Selim, Hurayz, Hishem Kalbi Nassebah, and Jebir ibn Hayyen, the alchemist. Even some important Sunni scholars such as Sufyen Thawri, Abu Hanifa (the founder of the Hanafi school of law), Qadi Sukuni, Qadi Abu 'l-Bakhtari and others, had the honor of being his students. It is said that his classes and sessions of instruction produced four thousand scholars of hadith and other sciences. Refering to the two years that he spent as a student of Imam as-Sediq (a.s.), Abu Hanifa used to say: "If it had not been for those two years, Nu'men1 would have perished."

The number of traditions preserved from the fifth and sixth Imams is more than all the hadith that have been recorded from the Prophet and the other ten Imams combined. That is why the Shi'a school of laws in Islam is known as "Ja'fari".

3. Students & Companions

Hamr n bin A'yan: Some of the students of Imam Ja'far as-S diq (a.s.) had reached such heights of excellence that they earned the complete trust of their teacher. Once a Syrian (who those days were usually against the Ahlu 'I−Bayt because of the Umayyad propaganda) entered the gathering of the Imam.

Upon inquiring the purpose of his visit, he said, "I have been told whatever the people ask you, you have an answer for that. So I have come to debate with you."

Imam (a.s.): "On what issue would you like to debate with me?"

Syrian: "About the Qur'sn."

Imam pointed towards Hamren bin A'yan and said, "Go and debate with him."

Syrian: "I have come to challenge you and debate with you, not with him."

Imam (a.s.): "Defeating Hamr

m would be like defeating me!"

So the Syrian went to Hamr®n and had a debate with him about the Qur'®n. Hamr®n answered all questions satisfactorily until the Syrian ran out of them. He finally conceded his own defeat.

Mufazzal bin 'Umar: He is well known for a treatise which the Imam dictated for him on the subject of tawh 1d. Here we will just mention one incident which shows that Imam Ja'far as – S 1diq was also actively working for peace and social harmony among his followers.

One day Mufazzal saw that two Shi'as were arguing and fighting with one another on the division of the estate of their relative. Mufazzal took both of them home and after discussion, resolved their conflict. In bringing about the resolution he had to add four hundred dirhams from himself. As the two Shi'as were leaving, Mufazzal said, "You should know that the money I have used to resolve your conflict is not my own money; it belongs to Imam Ja'far as–SEdiq (a.s.) who had given it to me with the instruction that whenever I see conflict among his followers, I should try to maintain peace among them by using that money."

4. Rulers & their Attitude

Imam as—Sediq's imamate coincided with the rule of the last five Umayyad rulers (Hishem bin 'Abdu 'I—Malik, Waled bin Yazed, Yazed bin Waled, Ibrehem bin Waled, and Marwen al-Himer) and the first two 'Abbesid caliphs (Abu 'I-'Abbes Saffeh and Manser Daweniqi).

As mentioned in the previous lesson, the Muslim people were gradually turning away from the Umayyads. The anti-Umayyad sentiment which had started with the massacre of Karbala, finally led to the fall of the Umayyads in 132 A.H. However, those who were leading the revolt in the name of Ahlu 'l-Bayt could not resist the temptation of power, and seized the seat of caliphate for themselves. These were the descendants of 'Abbs bin 'Abdul Muttalib, the uncle of the Prophet. Hence the next dynasty to rule the Muslim world was known as Banu 'Abbs or the 'Abbs sids.

Hish m, the Umayyad caliph, had ordered the sixth Imam to be arrested and brought to Damascus. The later Umayyad rulers were not strong enough to harass the Imam.

The Imam was then arrested by Saff®h, the first 'Abb®sid caliph and brought to Iraq. After some time, he was allowed to return to Medina. The reign of Mans®r, the second 'Abb®sid caliph, was even worse for the Shi'as. He ordered such torture and merciless killing of many of the descendants of the Prophet who were Shi'ite that his actions even surpassed the cruelty and heedlessness of the Umayyads. At his order they were arrested in groups, some thrown into deep and dark prisons, and tortured until they died, while others were beheaded or buried alive or placed at the base of or between walls of buildings, and walls were constructed over them.

Once Mans®r wrote to Imam as-S®diq (a.s.) asking him why he did not visit him like other dignitaries. The Imam wrote in reply: "Neither do we possess any worldly treasure for which we may fear you, nor do you possess any spiritual virtue for which we may seek your favour. So why should we come to you?" Mans®r replied, "Then come for admonishing us." The Imam replied, "Those who seek this world will never admonish you, and those who seek the hereafter will never come to you."

5. Last Days & Death

Finally, Mans®r had Imam as-S®diq (a.s.) arrested and brought to S®marrah (Iraq) where he had the Imam kept under supervision, was in every way harsh and discourteous to him, and several times thought of killing him. Eventually the Imam was allowed to return to Medina where he spent the rest of his life under severe restrictions placed upon him by the Abbasid ruler, until he was poisoned and martyred through the intrigue of Mansur.

Upon hearing the news of the Imam's martyrdom, Mansur wrote to the governor of Medina instructing him to go to the house of the Imam on the pretext of expressing his condolences to the family, to ask for the Imam's will and testament and read it. Whoever was chosen by the Imam as his inheritor and successor should be beheaded on the spot. Of course, the aim of Mansur was to put an end to the whole question of the imamate and to Shi'ite aspirations. When the governor of Medina, following orders, read the last will and testament, he saw that the Imam had chosen five people rather than one to administer his last will and testament: the caliph himself, the governor of Medina, 'Abdullah Aftah, the Imam's older son, Musa, his younger son, and Hamidah, his wife. In this way the plot of Mansur failed.

Abu Baser, a close companion of Imam Ja'far as-Sediq (a.s.), went to the Imam's house for expressing condolences on the death of the Imam. Umm Hamedah, the wife of the Imam, said, "O Abu Baser, if you had been at the Imam's side when he died, you would have been surprised. In his last moments, the Imam opened his eyes and asked that all family members come close to his bed. When everyone had gathered around him, he said, 'Verily, the person who considers the salet as a trivial issue, he will not deserve our intercession."
